Carson City Welcomes Mark Twain Back to his Birthplace

On July 24, over 100 people came to celebrate the return of Mark Twain to McFadden Plaza. The St. Charles Hotel is one of the only remaining buildings to have hosted the legendary author.

This sculpture continues an initiative to brand Carson City as the Birthplace of Mark Twain.

Coming Up Next...

August 18-23, Plein Air Carson City

The annual plein air festival has expanded to include categories for oil and acrylic and dry media. Along with watercolor, these three categories will bring a wider demographic of artists to compete.

September 19-23, Murals & Music

Jokin and Lara, Basque artists from San Sebastian, Spain, and HEESCO from Australia, join local and national artists for this fourth and final beautification initiative.

October 15-17, Mark Twain Days

The streets will be filled with the literary arts, featuring performances, readings, kid's activities, music, and community workshops centered around the world's greatest author, Mark Twain.
